

A Tree Talk by Townley Chisholm in 1989

Anything worth achieving has risks involved. By refusing to risk growing, one guarantees that one won't grow and will be stuck in the same behavioral pattern. If we can't risk opening up to others and accepting responsibilities to our community here, where and when will we ever have as safe a place to do it? Let's not waste a single opportunity to grow and to live as fully as we can. Go for it!
