

A Tree Talk by Nate Carmody in 1991

If we strive to embody the twelve leadership traits, we will become leaders among our peers and gain more responsibility wherever we are. As a reminder, here are the twelve traits: integrity, knowledge, courage, decisiveness, dependability, initiative, tact, justice, enthusiasm, unselfishness, loyalty, and judgment. The single most important element of being a leader is integrity. Without that, we will never succeed as a leader.
