

*Peyton Williams on Quality

How do we achieve the best in everything that we do? In other words, how do we achieve Quality? There are two ways to classify quality: Romantic and Classic. Romantic quality lacks an underlying structure and usually does not require much effort or discipline – Romantic pursuits are immediately gratifying and fun. Classic quality, on the other hand, is quality that has an underlying structure and requires dedication, attention to detail, self-sacrifice and passion. At camp it is easy to seek only Romantic quality, but we need to strive for Classic quality in our endeavors also, whether it be carving your initials in a rock, playing a mandolin, or learning how to paddle. Some ways to help promote Quality on a daily basis include eating well, drinking a lot of water, and surrounding yourself with good people.
